

Wellbeing action plan

A simple plan to help you
keep yourself well and get you through difficult times.

Hello!

We hope you find this booklet a useful starting point for being kind to yourself and keeping yourself well, especially at difficult times. It's based on a well-tested model called 'Wellness Recovery Action Planning' which is designed for people in recovery from mental illness.

We've simplified the idea and backed it up with advice and suggestions from young people to create this easy-to-use resource. It's designed to help you promote your wellbeing, regardless of whether you've faced mental health issues or not.

We hope that completing this booklet alongside an adult you trust will be both informative and fun. It can help you reflect on how best to look after yourself and seek help if you ever need it. Keep it safe and return to it – feel free to scribble all over it or start again as you learn more about yourself and what works for you.

Throughout, we've included a range of ideas shared by young people to get you started and inspire you.

Remember – be good to yourself!

My wellness toolbox

The first thing we need to do is to think about all the different things that help to make us or keep us well. These things make up our 'wellness toolbox' which can be a jumble of all sorts of different things. Nothing is too silly to put in your wellness toolbox – if it keeps you well or makes you smile, it should go in...

Getting active

Get active and get your blood pumping; it's a great way to work out anger, frustration or worry and really takes your mind off things.

Getting outside

Just being in outside space, camping and scouting, road trips, sunsets and sunrises, rollercoasters, walking the dog, taking a mindful walk.

Connecting

Time with family, quality time with friends, looking after pets, group activities, team sports, counselling, talking to friends online, WhatsApp groups.

Reaching out

Sometimes, if you can't really face being with people, you can still have a laugh with your mates online and it may help you feel better.

Positivity journal

Write down one thing you feel grateful for each day. Some days it's hard to think of something, but you'll probably feel better when you do.

Playlist of my life

Find songs to represent all the different things you are feeling and sing along. Try to allow yourself to feel a range of different things and end with something upbeat.

Worry balloon

Write your worries on a balloon... then blow it up and let it go or pop it.

Quiet time and relaxing

Enjoy your own space – sleeping in or taking a long bath. Immerse yourself in things that make you happy like reading books, playing video games, listening to music, watching your favourite TV shows and cooking.

The healing power of tea

We decided that there is hardly anything that doesn't feel a bit better with tea! Seriously though... even when things are really bad, if you take time out to make a hot drink and sit down with it, it gives you time to be calm, focus and begin to plan your way out of a hole.

A plan for every day

Next we think about what things we should either try to do, or try to avoid each day in order to help ourselves feel as good as possible.

Things to do

Managing triggers and challenges

Triggers are things that happen to us or situations we face that make it harder for us to stay well. Here we think about likely triggers and how we can manage them.

Inspiration

Talk

Let an adult you trust support you

Take time for yourself

Research the thing that is bothering you so you feel more in control

Use social media to ask for help

Make a plan

Call a helpline

Talk to someone at work or school

Use art or music to help you understand what is bothering you

Admit there is a problem

The most important thing is to say something to someone. As soon as you open up it's like a weight has been lifted from your shoulders.

Early warning signs

It's useful to learn to recognise the signs in our thoughts, feelings, appearance or behaviour which might help us or those who care about us to recognise when we need help. Thinking about this can also help us recognise when a friend might need our support too.

Inspiration

- Unusual behaviour – acting different from normal
- Changes in body language
- Losing interest in things
- Forgetting things
- Not listening or caring

- Saying 'yes' but meaning 'no'
- Mood swings
- Feeling low, angry, stressed, lonely or crying
- Tiredness or becoming quiet and withdrawn
- Being late for school
- Avoiding friends or social situations

- Changes in social media habits – shutting down, stopping social media, not answering the phone, uploading worrying photos or status updates
- Neglecting your appearance or cleanliness
- Self-harm
- Feeling unable to manage

You get pretty good at spotting the signs in your friends but it can be harder to see them in yourself, so you have to be a kind of little team looking out for each other and stepping in when one of you needs help.

What next?

If you spot the warning signs that things are going less well for yourself or a friend, what should you do next? The young people we worked with had three main suggestions:

Write it down – if you're not ready to talk to someone, write down what's wrong and commit to a next step – it might be helpful showing someone what you've written.

Call a helpline or use a website if you're not ready to talk – for example the Samaritans: samaritans.org | 116 123 | jo@samaritans.org or Childline: childline.org.uk | 0800 1111.

Talk to an adult you trust – maybe a parent, teacher or doctor.
